

Nice to meet you.
Or rather, “very long time no see!” to some of you.

My name is “Yoeko”.
In the past I was active under the name “Yoeko Kurahashi”.

I am here to inform you that I will be resuming my activities from now on under the name “Yoeko”.

I quit writing music and retired 15 years ago and, because of a long history of health issues, thus far I have gone through a thorny path.

During that time, I kept wondering what such a weak and unstable person like me would be able to do.

Despite having a chronic illness, with the support of my staff, I am making a fresh start.

For these reasons this could be a slow walk, with me having to take breaks from time to time.

However, if there are people willing to listen, and if these songs can be of any help, I will sing them to the best of my current abilities.

And, sorry for making this all sound a little bit too gloomy!
As long as I don’t push myself beyond my limits, I believe I can keep on singing, so I kindly ask for your support.

Thank you very much for reading until the end.
